NOG•FEST

FROM THE KITCHEN OF KAY LUM NOG•FEST MEDLEY

(A.K.A. how to cook up a great Nog•fest experience)

Prep. Time: varies

Serves: as many as needed

Temperature: not above 32° F.

Shopping List:

- At least one nonperishable food item
- a small item with a $6 (perceived) value
- Ingredients to make a dish to pass, or a bag of potato chips, corn chips, cookies, fruit-cake, mixed nuts, etc.
- While at store, notice all Christmas and holiday related items and think of them in terms of potential costume ideas

After returning from store:

- Step 1: Unload groceries. Place nonperishable food items to the side until later.
- Step 2: Sift through costume ideas in head and simmer over low heat while proceeding with next few steps.
- Step 3: Find $6 (perceived value) gift, carefully wrap it in pastry dough or wrapping paper and place to side with nonperishable food items.
- Step 4: Make dish to pass, or place bag of junk food in pile with canned goods and cheap gift.
- Step 5: Check on simmering ideas. When they come to a full boil, choose the one that rises to the top.
- Step 6: Create this "noggy" costume with homemade, purchased, or found items.
- Step 7: Make sure you own a camera.
- Step 8: Practice some new dance moves, they may come in handy during the dance portion of Nog•fest.

Step 9: Age patiently until December 9th. You can use this time to catch up on sleep, volunteer as a bell-ringer, or do final tweaking on your costume. (FYI: there will be a parade of costumes as well as a costume contest including valuable prizes!).

WHEN DECEMBER 9TH FINALLY ARRIVES:

Gather your dish to pass (bag of chips), your thoughtful $6 (perceived value) gift for the gift exchange, your nonperishable food item(s) (A.K.A. admission to the party) and don your award-winning Christmas related "noggy" costume (it IS a costume party after all), charge up your camera battery, and get on over to the Nog•fest headquarters (see map on other side). Be prepared for a long night of fun and frivolity!

Nutrition information per serving:

If followed properly, this recipe provides 300% of the daily requirements for laughter, hugs, guffaws, nog, chuckles, dancing, frivolity, warm fuzzy holiday feelings, hugs, grins, silliness, beer, music... (basically, it's really GOOD for you!)

This recipe goes well with:

Blackened Christmas Capon, Beer-Battered Deep-Fried Capon, Poached Capon with nutmeg and eggnog glaze, and basically any other recipe that involves a dead Capon.

I am a capon. I didn't you ever hear of the ghost of capons past?

Who turned out the lights? and why is that chicken thing at Nog•fest?

Look at everyone dancing! Will you dance with me?

All you ever want to do is you so shopping or something?

Personally I think they are looking a the KING of Elves!

I am in search of the woman (or what-ever) that belongs with this feather.

no feathers on THIS chick...

...I wish he would just ask me to dance! I THINK he is with the BAND!

WOW, look at this recipe! Good thing I have my reading glasses on!

Smile! you never know where this photo will show up!

I hope they play BLUE Christmas!

I am the REAL ELF!

and I am really old.

HEY! I'm Younger than most of the people here! In fact, I'm Younger than Harry!

Don't worry dear! I will take care of you now that you are old and gray.

This was well worth the admission price!

Why did I agree to be "Silent Night"?

I say they BOTH need a new hairdresser.

It's a good thing we have the same hairdresser (since our heads are stuck together).

Everyone knows that Capons are MUCH tastier than turtle doves!

The less Kay cooks, the better.

This is my favorite recipe! (Probably because it doesn't involve any cooking.

Kay is my favorite aunt, by the way.

Aw gee, Emily, but you really shouldn't say that on an invitation.

I'm a blue Christmas Angel. Want to see me fly in formation?

so, if you keep saying that someday the 20th and last... you will make it, well, you're running out of time! (This is also your Christmas card from the Lums...so hang it up!)
